Training Course on Impact Assessments for World Heritage
19-25 October, 2020, Fukuoka Japan
Objectives

- To equip the participants with current knowledge and skills of using Impact Assessment as a tool for informing decision-making regarding various factors affecting heritage in general, and World Heritage sites in particular;
- To provide participants with knowledge on management and monitoring requirements, and reporting mechanisms for World Heritage properties;
- To enable participants to understand the benefits of linking nature and culture and the role of Impact Assessments in heritage management planning;
- To promote the exchange of experiences and information in heritage management and conservation among practitioners.

The 2020 Training Course on Impact Assessments for World Heritage will introduce the updated Guidance on Impact Assessment for World Heritage, which has been prepared by the three Advisory Bodies to the World Heritage Convention, ICOMOS, ICCROM and IUCN, in partnership with the UNESCO World Heritage Centre. Therefore, the course will explore how Impact Assessment can be applied to both natural and cultural World Heritage. With the support of the Government of Japan, practical experience will be gained and lessons will be shared during the field assessment of the World Heritage Site of Sacred Island of Okinoshima and Associated Sites in the Munakata Region.

Background

In recent years, it has been noted that increasing numbers of World Heritage properties are facing pressure from various forms of large-scale development and other significant changes that affect Outstanding Universal Value. The World Heritage Committee has seen the impacts of these factors in considerable numbers of State of Conservation Reports and have been requesting impact assessments to inform decision making for many years. As part of their complementary mandates to build capacities of State Parties to the World Heritage Convention, WHITRAP Shanghai together with ICCROM, has organized training courses on Heritage Impact Assessment since 2012.
